Meals and meal times

The first meal of the day is breakfast – usually between 7 and 8 o'clock. The traditional British breakfast is very big: bacon, eggs, sausages, tomatoes, mushrooms, baked beans and fried bread! But nowadays people don't usually cook a big breakfast every morning. They only have a cooked breakfast on Sundays, or when they stay in a hotel.

Most people have a light breakfast. These are some typical things that people have for breakfast:

- toast with jam, honey or marmalade
- cereal with milk and sugar
- fruit (grapefruit is popular)
- yoghurt
- orange juice
- coffee or tea

Between 12 o'clock and two o'clock people have lunch. This is often a light meal of soup, sandwiches and / or a salad. Most children have their lunch at school. They can take sandwiches from home (a packed lunch) or they can buy food at the school canteen.

The main meal of the day is dinner. People usually eat this between about six and seven o'clock in the evening.

A traditional dinner is meat or fish with potatoes and vegetables, but many people nowadays cook foreign food. Lasagne, risotto or curry are popular and some people are vegetarians.

After the main course, some people have dessert (also called 'pudding') – such as fruit, chocolate cake, or apple pie with ice-cream or custard.

In some parts of England, people have the main meal at mid-day and call it 'dinner'. They call the light meal they have in the afternoon or evening 'tea'. Some people also call the evening meal 'supper'. This can be a light meal or a main meal.

- The traditional English breakfast isn't very big.
- There are baked beans in the traditional English breakfast.
- Grapefruit is popular for breakfast.
- People have lunch between three and five p.m.
- They have dinner in the restaurant.
- Many people are vegetarians.
- Main meal is called dinner or supper in some parts of England.
